GLOSSO BURNING SOLVED BY POLICE

CLOTHING OF DEAD MAN FOUND

Following an all day investigation at the ranch of Albert Coster, in Brimley valley east of Pinole, Richmond police yesterday filed a felony charge against Coster and announced that they felt convinced that they had solved the mystery which surrounded the fatal burning of Tony Glosso on Feb. 1.

For ions of burned clothing believed to have been worn by Glosso at the time of the fatal blast were found in a gully near the Coster ranch house. Other portions of clothing including a suit of underwear were found in the ashes of a fire about 20 feet from a shed on the ranch.

Bits of what police believe to be human flesh were found clinging to the underwear. These with other portions of the clothing containing what is believed to be blood spots will be turned over to E. O. Heineke, Berkeley chemist, who will be asked to make an analysis of them. Investigators believe the flesh on the underwear is that of Glosso, left there when his clothing was ripped from the body before the fatally burned man was brought to the Abbott Emergency hospital here early on the morning of Feb. 1.

Fled From It Spill
Coster admitted to police Wednesday that he was one of the men who brought Glosso to the hospital here and later fled without giving any information about the injured man. His story according to police was that Glosso known to him as Tony P. era had been the ranch from him to raise vegetables. On the morning of Feb. 1, Coster contends Glosso drove to his home and said that he had been burned in the explosion of some gasoline in an automobile. Coster says that he then hurried Glosso into his own car and brought him to the hospital here with the assistance of Glosso's (Continued on Page 5)

DAN COX, Chief of Police.

Let's Find Out The Facts

Charges, counter charges, denials, committee meetings and tests have marked the controversy over the construction of the new half million dollar wharf on the inner harbor.

Yesterday two more concrete piles which are under question were driven at the site of the wharf. They were placed beside the pile with the splintered top which was driven shortly before the driving was halted by city officials and officers of the Parr-Richmond Terminal corporation.

A fourth pile was started yesterday and its splintered, wire bound top towering high above its brothers, indicated that all had not gone well in the driving. Workmen would not discuss the situation.

Laborers were cutting off one of the concrete piles driven earlier in the day. It appeared as though work was going ahead in building the wharf on the piles.

Isn't it about time that an impartial board be appointed and the true situation of the wharf construction be known?

That is the usual proceeding in cases of this kind.

The citizens of Richmond are paying for the construction of the wharf. They have a right to demand that it be built according to specifications.

After the findings of an impartial board have been submitted, then let the work proceed if plans and specifications are being carried out. If the work is being carried on as called for in the contract with the city the contractors should be allowed to continue with the work without interference other than the regular appointed inspections by city and the Parr-Richmond Terminal corporation officials. If not, provisions should be made to see that the city gets what the contract calls for.

Rumors have been bruited about the streets since the work started.

It is reliably reported that the weight of the pile driving hammer was ordered changed after the driving of the wooden piles had been started at the wharf with a lighter implement.

Other rumors are that the wooden piles were not of the size called for in the specifications and that the creosote mixture used for timbers was diluted with crude oil.

These, coupled with the recent investigation of the patented concrete piling, certainly call for a complete and impartial investigation by a board apart from the city or the officials of the Parr Terminal corporation. A procedure similar to the one followed out on the Lafayette dam sinking—on a smaller scale—might be tried.

Every lot owner in the city is helping to pay for this structure through his bond taxes.

As it stands, if the statements of reputable citizens can be taken as a criterion the taxpayers of Richmond will not feel satisfied until an impartial investigation has been made and a COMPLETE REPORT OF THE FINDINGS PUBLISHED.

P. G. E. TO WAR ON KITE FLYING

Officials of the Pacific Gas and Electric company yesterday asked the cooperation of the police, fire departments, Boy Scouts and other organizations of the Eastbay region to warn children of the dangers of kite flying, close to power wires.

If metal attachments on the kites should strike a high tension wire, the results would be "hard on the kite flyer, the kite and the wires," officials of the company warned.

Santa Rey Firm Granted Pinole Road Contract

PINOLE, Feb. 21. The Pinole Paving company of Santa Rey was yesterday awarded a contract by the state department of public works for the paving of a section of the state highway through Pinole.

The bid, which was the lowest of several presented, agreed to pave the road with concrete and bituminous macadam at a price of $159,905.

Grading will be started as soon as equipment can be assembled and soon the Pinole "bottleneck" will be smashed. Buildings along the north line of the highway through the city are now being moved to provide a clear 80-foot right of way. It is expected that the work will be completed and open to traffic before the heavy travel of the summer sets in.

Local Man Fined On Peace Charge

Elgin Schwerer, a roomer at a local hotel, was fined $10 when he appeared before Police Judge C. A. Odell yesterday on a charge of disturbing the peace. He was arrested on the complaint of J. C. McAlfee proprietor of the hotel, who charged that Schwerer created a disturbance.

JUSTICE POST HERE DEPENDS ON DECISION

Pending a decision by District Attorney A. B. Tinning who is studying the recent decision of the supreme court holding that justice courts have been abolished in cities having police courts with concurrent jurisdiction, no action will be taken by County Auditor A. N. Pullinger in regard to the salary of Justice of the Peace Arthur A. Alstrom, he stated last night.

Based on the decision, small hope was expressed that the justice court here could continue. The status of Constable J. W. Smiley is also being questioned. The constable, it is pointed out, is an officer of the justice court and as such the office would be abolished in the event that the justice court is found to be without power. However, the constable is also empowered to preserve the peace which may be the saving point for the position.

A philosophical attitude was taken by Judge Alstrom yesterday. He declared that he was looking for another job in the event that his present office is abolished. It may be necessary to secure a special act of the state legislature in order for Alstrom to receive his salary for this month, in the event that Pullinger holds on the pay warrant for February.

Grand Jury Silent On Constable Probe

MARTINEZ, Feb. 21. The grand jury today held the grand jury hearing on the shooting of Guy Cancho, known by Constable J. J. Crockett, two weeks ago, coming a mystery.

Without making any report to the court, the grand jury adjourned last night after the adjournment of a street brawl testified at the hearing. The nature of the testimony was not declared. "We have nothing to report at this time," the grand jury declared in response to an ultimatum that he resign on pain of being indicted.

In response to an inquiry as to whether the grand jury would state whether the matter will be considered at a special meeting or the regular meeting next Tuesday, the grand jury said it would not state whether the matter will be considered at a special meeting or the regular meeting next Tuesday.

The amount of the cut in retail prices continued in San Francisco with gasoline falling at one to two cents a gallon below the figures of service stations. In Oakland there was a cut of one cent in the price of gasoline and a cut of one cent in the price of oil.

In other parts of the state, the blizzard was being held at varying prices.

CLUES FAIL IN CHILD SEARCH

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21. (UP.)—Methods of torture for Doris Virginia Murphy, four year old victim of a kidnaper, were described today in the fourth note received by parents of the girl. The note was signed "K. K."

Relations in the latest crudely written missive were so revolting that veteran police officers cringed and refused to make them public.

Doris' mother was first to see the note. The letter was one of many that had been delivered to her home since the little girl mysteriously disappeared from a local playground last Friday afternoon.

Another clue over the note this morning passed into a dead faint, from which she could not be revived for several minutes.

Detective Sergeant Leo Brunner was called to study the note. He was trembling and slightly pale when he had perused it.

"He is carrying out the threats made in this letter," he should be boiled in oil," Brunner exclaimed. "Why, if those threats are being carried out, this case will prove worse than Hickman's crime."

Declared Victims
The mother termed the letter as "choking" and the officer declared it as "especially vicious and terrible."

Another letter addressed to parents of the girl was intercepted this evening by a postman who thought the writing resembled that of the kidnaper's letter. He discovered it in a mail box about 11 o'clock.

NEW CUT IN ELECTRIC RATES

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21.—UP.—Advances to rural electric rates estimated at more than $1,000,000 are expected from an agreement reached today between the state railroad commission and power companies.

Thomas F. Smith, president of the commission, announced that informal negotiations between the commission, the California Electric Power Corporation and the Pacific Gas & Electric and Great Western Power companies had resulted in the companies agreeing to the immediately a new rate, whereby the companies will build electric extensions at their own expense.

Heretofore the corporations have built power lines only on public highways, extensions over private property being at the consumer's expense.

A largely added benefit to rural users will come through the additional agreement by the companies to purchase the present existing privately owned connecting lines.

CONSERVED RESOURCES

On the public domain, says the Geological Survey, there are 30,000,000 acres of coal land which contain 200,000,000,000 tons of fuel for the future.

This single item gives an idea of the latest values that still remain in government owned land. "While the area of land still remaining in public ownership," said President Coolidge in his message to congress, "is small in comparison with the vast area in private ownership, the natural resources of those in public ownership are of immense present and future value. This is particularly true as to minerals and water power."

There are half a million acres of phosphate land, says a statement from the Department of the Interior that can supply 8,000,000,000 tons of this essential fertilizer as its need on American farms is better realized. There is an undetermined acreage of potash deposits, the best of which yet discovered are on public lands. There are 65 developed oil and gas fields with an annual production of 33,000,000 barrels of oil. There are 4,000,000 acres of oil shale from which possibly 60,000,000,000 barrels of oil can be extracted when high prices arrive to warrant the higher cost.

The general policy of the federal government as reflected in recent legislation is to retain the ownership of the principal natural resources of its remaining public lands, permitting the development of these resources only under lease or permit. In order to carry out this policy it is necessary to examine and classify all the public lands with reference to their highest use or value. The work of classifying all the public lands and leasing the mineral lands has been assigned to the Geological Survey. Efficient, beneficial use of the lands is the purpose of classification.

An indication of the extent to which use is now being made of our mineral and water power resources, under permit or lease, may be gleaned from the following statistics:

Out of a total of nearly 13,000,000 horsepower now developed in the United States more than 4,500,000 horsepower is developed on public lands or navigable streams, under authorization of the federal government.

From the passage of the mineral leasing law in 1920 to June 30, 1928, 197,000,000 barrels of oil have been produced from public lands under government lease or permit, of which more than 23,000,000 barrels were produced in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1928.

During a similar period nearly 13,000,000 tons of coal have been mined from leased public lands, of which about 3,000,000 tons were produced in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1928.

Last year the oil and gas rights in a tract of 160 acres of public land were disposed of for $420,000 in addition to which the government will probably receive a royalty of $1,000,000 or more on the oil and gas when they are produced. Before knowledge of their mineral content was available other tracts of even greater value have been disposed of as agricultural lands for a nominal filing fee that fails to pay the cost of administration. The gain to the United States from adequate information on a single tract of this kind would provide an appropriation sufficient to ascertain values of large areas of the public land in advance of disposal, as a means of intelligent administration and insurance against loss.

This is a great estate worthy of much study and careful administration, in order that the interests of all people may be served. The United States Geological Survey is attempting to supply the facts on which that careful, intelligent administration may be based.

An Atlanta man has been married five times, and on each occasion he picked a girl named Helen. Perhaps he likes 'em that way, so he can call 'em Hell for short.

HOW---

We are turning future prospects into present day assets!

There never has been any question as to Richmond's industrial future.

With a strategic location, enabling the manufacturer to distribute his product to the Coast Trade and to the Orient at the lowest possible cost; with a remarkable climatic condition giving him the benefit of maximum labor production; with abundant industrial acreage reasonably priced; with excellent railroad facilities, it has only remained for us to develop our harbor to the point where we would be in a position to take care of the business that would come to us if we are in a position to handle it.

In the past a lack of proper harbor facilities has retarded our progress, for an industrial city can grow no faster than its transportation facilities.

The activity which you see taking place along the waterfront means that the "new spirit of Richmond has taken hold," that we are now making it OUR BUSINESS to make Richmond's potential possibilities our PRESENT ASSETS which this generation of citizens and business men may enjoy.

CONQUEST

BASED ON THE CANDLE IN THE WIND

by MARY LAMAY TAYLOR

Copyright 1928, Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.

"CONQUEST," starring Monte Blue, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

FAUNCE

Arthur Faunce returns from an expedition to the South Pole headed by Sir John Overton, according to reports Overton is dead and Faunce receives the leader's honors. Both men are dead, daughter of Judge Herford, but neither had spoken.

Faunce because of his great friend ship for Overton, Faunce brings Overton's message and photographs. After a dinner given by the judge, the evidence and Dr. Gerry walk home together. Dr. Gerry shyly suggests that Faunce is troubled about what he had best get his mind off of his own and Faunce leaves the doctor, still thinking of Overton.

Faunce had been favored. Overton had seen that the lad was without a real friend; and the elder boy took hold of the younger. A friendship was formed, protective on the one side, almost adoring on the other, and from that time their fates had moved forward in an inseparable course.

When Overton went to Annapolis, he had helped Faunce to work his way through college. When Faunce's father died and left him a small estate, it was his widow and Arthur's stepmother, Overton, had tided Arthur over, until he got a place, and his grandmother's death left him the sole heir of her modest fortune. It was this old estate, which had been the only thing that had drawn him into the first expedition to the south pole.

Overton, as a lieutenant in the navy, had organized the great adventure. He had selected Faunce as an accompanist, and the trip had been successful up to a certain point. Then the inexorable conditions of polar exploration had worsened their efforts, and they had been forced to turn back. Bitterly disappointed, Overton had returned to his home, and Faunce, who had then, flushed with new hope, and with that kind of fateful vision which pursues the most difficult and dangerous chimeras, he had set out for the second time, determined to plant the Stars and Stripes at the farthest south.

In the interval between the two expeditions much had happened. Overton had become an acknowledged force in the world of adventure, and Faunce was aware that he had set his heart on the one girl who had remained to both of them the sweetest and most charming reminder of their young days at Mapleton. That Diane, too, had matured into an early environment and accomplished woman of the world seemed only fitting and natural; and Faunce knew, long before the ill-fated ship sailed from New York, that the young leader had left his heart behind him.

Faunce had felt a thrill of satisfaction, too, that under that supreme test he had not failed to keep his faith with his comrade and benefactor. Loving Diane himself, he had stood aside and left the field free to his rival. He had found some consolation in the fact that he had demonstrated his own spiritual growth, and had proved to himself that he was not above these menial devices which, in his boyhood, had sometimes won for him immunity from punishment, or a reward that was not rightfully his.

The expedition had sailed amid the thunder of salutes from the warships in the harbor, and on the second time Overton followed the ill-fated ship that led him toward the south pole. Faunce shuddered and passed his hand over his eyes. He was broken. He could no longer recall the past without seeing the wrath that seemed to rise from the very mist over the brook and to shape itself before him, as it had shaped itself hundreds of times already, into a vision of Overton as he had seen him last.

Faunce saw it as he had seen it.

Overton's life had been extinguished.

MARTINEZ, Feb. 21. Mrs. George P. Rose and her husband, Alphonso J. Rose, of Oakland, today filed suits in the superior court for $14,000 damages against James McLaughlin of Richmond as the result of an automobile accident at the intersection of Cutting Boulevard and Forty-fifth street, Richmond, some time ago. Mrs. Rose suffered a fractured knee and other injuries for which she asks 7,000. Her husband asks a similar amount for his wife's injuries.

WATER BOARD TO COMBAT SHORTAGE

Steps to guard against a possible water shortage are being taken by the East Bay Municipal Utility district according to a report filed with the directors of the district by Arthur P. Davis, district engineer.

On Feb. 15, 1929, the local reservoirs contained 6,132,000,000 gallons of water of which 2,450,000,000 were above the outlets. The average daily supply taken from the reservoirs was 14,728,000 gallons and from tunnels and springs 11,029,000 gallons, making a total of 25,757,000 gallons from both sources. The gain in storage during two weeks was 337,000,000 gallons.

In a previous report the board was notified of what is expected to be an early necessity for pumping an additional water supply to forestall an impending shortage unless abundant rains should come. Plans for pumping from Roberts' Landing wells were made and estimates for these were included in the budget submitted in January by the board. At that time the explanation was made that if extra precautions did not prove necessary owing to sufficient rainfall, the budget would be reduced by about $50,000.

The loss from storage through overflow in December was 228,800,000 gallons. There was a loss of 287,000,000 gallons during the month of January but during the first half of February there was a gain of 237,000,000 gallons. The run off to date is 1,268,000,000 or a little more than reported in 1924, the driest on record.

Request has been made of the Eden Township Water district that the East Bay district be permitted to pump water at an early date from Roberts' Landing wells. It is believed that this permission has been favorably recommended by the consulting engineer.

Work at Camp Pardee for bringing mountain water in is being rushed as rapidly as possible, it was reported. The dam was in shape to divert water into the tunnel last December, but the tunnel still under construction and is the only feature which now stands in the way of bringing in reservoir water at any time.

MAUSOLEUM IN CATHEDRAL SETTING

Sunset Mausoleum in its truly spiritual setting in the Berkeley hills facing the Golden Gate, has been likened to a great cathedral. The monumental and massive finish of its construction and the beauty of its imported marble finish were designed and planned to provide the atmosphere of the edifice that are known the world over. Sunset Mausoleum association in its announcement, sets forth that it is appropriate and fitting for a building that is a civic necessity and surrounded with such hallowed memories.

The main entrance has been named "Cathedral Hall." It is reached by a grand stairway of Roman Travertine over 55 feet wide. From the doorway one of the most inspiring outlooks possible is offered with the Golden Gate directly in front. "Cathedral Hall" is 85 feet long, 35 feet wide and 35 feet high to the massive, arched ceilings. It is to be finished in polished Travertine with five different kinds of imported marble on the floor. "Cathedral Hall" will be used for services until the chapel is erected.

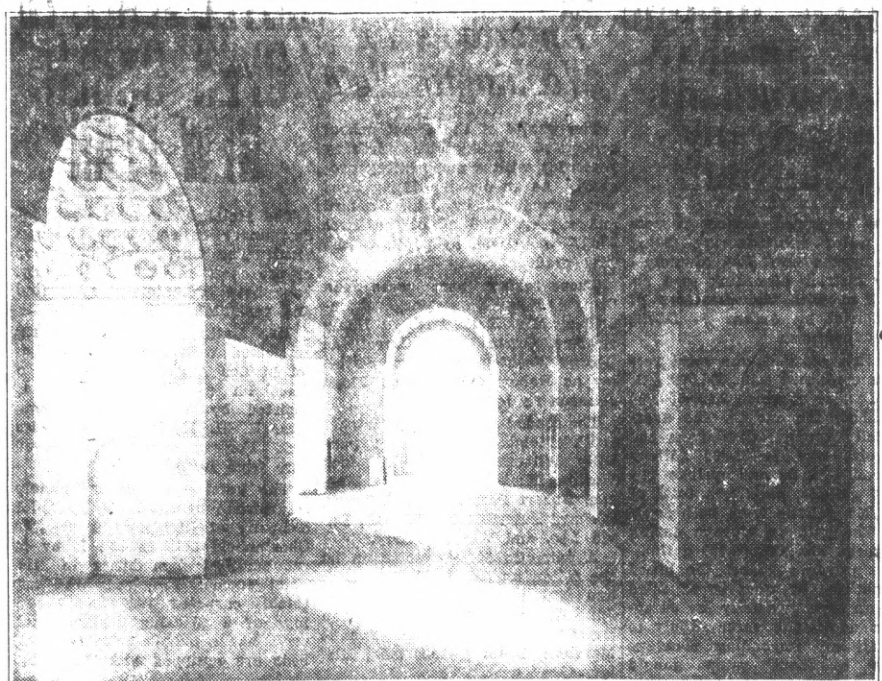

The Travertine used comes from a river bed in Italy and is considered one of the most enduring marbles known. Many of those century-old buildings in Rome and other parts of Italy were faced with the Roman Travertine.

Another interesting and beautiful marble used is the Italian Pionazette in the west corridors of Sunset and Lawn Terraces. It has a dignified cream-white coloring with a delicate tint of gold. The matching brings out a most interesting design on the walls. Pionazette is being used for the first time on the Pacific coast. With the massive archways and the heavy mottled corbels, the imported marble shows to good advantage.

The north corridor, providing an entrance to Lawn Terrace, has been finished in Alabama cream and has impressed visitors. Then there is a Madre Vin marble in the east corridor that has a particularly outlined design. Other marbles in Sunset Mausoleum come from Spain, Monzolia, Greece and France.

Sunset Mausoleum is open daily and Sundays for inspection by the public and visitors take particular interest in the marble finish.

'Cathedral Hall' In Mausoleum

MASSIVENESS of the reinforced concrete construction of the Sunset Mausoleum is ably demonstrated in this scene. The walls are faced with Roman Areverine with the arched ceilings in mosaic designs. This entrance is 85 feet long, 35 feet wide and 35 feet high.

RYAN GIVEN NOD OVER LIMAS

Joe Limas, who is hailed as the "pride of El Cerrito" met another leather pusher by the name of Buddy Ryan, "pride of Pinole" last night at the El Cerrito Athletic club. When the smoke of the battle had cleared away Ryan walked from the ring with the olive wreath and what have you, winner of a ten round decision over Limas.

It was a good battle all the way through and up to a late hour last night, none of the fans were reported as going to sleep during the course of the brawl. Mickey Brown, of Richmond came out on the losing end of his fight with Eddie Graham. Graham proved to easily for the local lad and walked away with a six round decision in his possession.

Frank Limas, of El Cerrito knocked out Jack McCarthy in the second round of one of these here fights.

In the top preliminary Jack Schaffer knocked out Jack McCarthy in the first round. The show was given a send off when Baby Face Ketchell smacked his friend William Arthur to the canvas for the count of ten in the middle of the first round of the curtain raiser. It will be remembered that Arthur snubbed for Ketchell recently and knocked out his opponent. Believing that two plus two is four, Arthur wanted a battle with Ketchell. He got it.

Ray White was the third party in the ring.

The Bell Telephone company of Canada, operating in the Province of Ontario and Quebec, plans to spend the sum of $75,000,000 on extending long distance lines during 1929.

HOW

WILL ETHYL IMPROVE MY CAR

- Ethyl gasoline will immediately eliminate all "carbon knocks."
- Ethyl will give you greater power and speed.
- Ethyl means smoother and easier driving in traffic—easier starting with instant acceleration at all speeds.
- Ethyl reduces gear shifting to a minimum.
- Ethyl enables you to climb hills in high you have never climbed before.
- Ethyl means generally reduced operating costs—it eliminates destructive vibration and minimizes engine depreciation.

In the modern high compression motors—68% of all automobiles made in this country today have them—Ethyl is an absolute necessity to secure the improved performance for which they were designed.

With fully advanced spark and properly adjusted carburetor the improvement over any other gasoline is so great as to more than justify the small premium charged—a premium which represents the actual cost of the Ethyl fluid added to the gasoline.

Ethyl brand of anti-knock compound was developed in the great laboratories of the General Motors Corporation after seven years of costly and intensive research and the testing of more than 33,000 separate formulas. It is used today by 42 of the largest oil companies throughout the entire world and is endorsed by the foremost automotive engineers in the world.

Because of the success of Ethyl gasoline, many imitations have appeared—so-called high compression gasolines totally inferior in quality and results. Ethyl is the only genuine anti-knock, high compression fuel and is sold only from pumps bearing the Ethyl trademark.

*To secure maximum results from your motor advance the spark at the distributor to a point where the "knock" is greatest with ordinary gasoline; set the carburetor to a leaner mixture, and then use Ethyl exclusively.

Actual figures, compiled by the Dayton Power & Light Company covering a fleet of 185 motor vehicles of all types over a five year period, show a substantial reduction in cost per mile in all cars using Ethyl gasoline. Many other corporations can show a similar saving.

COLLEGE PLANS TOUR THROUGH EUROPE

STOCKTON, Feb. 21.—That the number of local people who made the trip to Europe on the second European tour conducted by the College of the Pacific last summer will be eclipsed during the third tour this summer was virtually assured by Dr. J. William Harris last week when he announced that some sixteen people have shown exceptional interest in the tour already this year.

Opportunities present themselves at every juncture said Dr. Harris when he pointed out that those making the trip this summer will be afforded the privilege of listening in on two very important educational conferences that will convene while the party is in Europe.

The new Education Fellowship will hold sessions from August 8 to 21 at Elmhurst, about 20 miles from Copenhagen, in the old palace of "Hamlet." Representatives from all of the leading universities will be present, however, the American delegation is limited and applications for official recognition should be filed at once, according to Dr. Harris.

At Geneva in Switzerland the World's Federation of Teachers' association will meet at a time when it will be very convenient for members of the Pacific party to attend the sessions. This is one of the most outstanding educational conferences to be held this year on the face of the globe.

In Vienna the American party will get in touch with the vast school system reorganization that has been taking place there. Progressive educational activity has been the keynote of the reorganization program in Vienna, according to Dr. Harris.

Some of the party expect to listen in at the East-European summer school that is also being conducted in Vienna.

Those interested in the tour may write to Prof. Allen Bacon, Dr. J. William Harris, or Arthur Bonner at the college of the Pacific, Stockton, California.

New telephone wire, in the United States, is being added at the rate of about 10 miles a minute.

FATAL BURNING NEAR HERE SOLVED

Police Find Car
Given a tip on the location of the death car, police on Wednesday went to the Costa ranch and found the automobile which was later identified by Patrolman George Roff as the machine from which Glosso had been removed at the Emergency hospital.

Glosso admitted to police on Wednesday night that he had brought Glosso here but confessed that he knew absolutely nothing more about the case.

Yesterday Chief of Police Dan Cox, Capt. L. E. Jones, Patrolman Allen J. Cundy and Deputy District Attorney Warren Olney, Jr., visited the ranch and made a thorough search.

Felony Complaint
While there they found what, according to Capt. Jones, appeared to be the worm of a still. Captain Jones swore to a felony complaint charging Glosso with illegal possession of portions of a still before District Attorney A. B. Tuning. Bail of $2500 was set by Justice of the Peace Frank Glass in lieu of which Glosso was being held in the county jail late last night.

Continuing their search, the party according to Chief Cox first investigated a shed which appeared to have been occupied by a large still at a recent date. Vats capable of holding from 20,000 to 30,000 gallons, such as usually used for the storage of molasses, were also found. Nearby Chief Cox noted was new material for the construction of more tanks.

Mark of Fire
In this shed police found marks of a recent fire. In a gully nearby they found portions of burned shoes, cord, a razor, a belt, a hat and an olive drab shirt.

Near the shed were the ashes of a recent fire. It appeared as though a bed of straw, towels, and other articles had been burned in this fire. Chief Cox stated that what appeared to be blood spots and portions of human hair found on remnants of the articles in the ashes will also be turned over to Hetching for analysis.

Unable To Explain
Coster was unable to explain where the alleged gasoline blast had occurred in which he stated Glosso was burned. Authorities were also doubtful if Glosso could have driven his car any distance after he received the burns.

Glosso when taken to the hospital here was wrapped only in a sheet, a table cover and a small comforter.

According to Coster the car which Glosso drove to the ranch was left standing there for several days and then taken away by someone he did not know. This car was later found in Oakland near a call had been made to the Alameda dealer who was selling the car to Glosso under contract.

Mystery Cleared
Chief of Police Dan Cox last night expressed the opinion that in his mind it was clear that Glosso had been burned at or near the place where his clothing was found yesterday and that the entire story of the fatal blast would probably be cleared up within a few days.

In September of last year Coster paid a fine of $500 for illegal possession of liquor after a raid conducted by the county dry squad under Clyde Laird, Alameda's chief of police, the fine at the time he was ordered yesterday that the liquor found by the raiders had belonged to Glosso.

Warning On Gas Storage Given Here

Don't let your enthusiasm in keeping down future automobile expense persuade you into storing gasoline illegally during the low price period, Fire Chief W. P. Cooper stated last night in a warning to motorists.

It is against a city ordinance to store more than five gallons of gasoline in any type of container above the ground. Chief Cooper pointed out in his warning.

Not only is it against the law but it presents a life and property hazard far greater than any saving that could be made by frugal motorists.

Gasoline must be stored in approved containers underneath the ground, Chief Cooper admonished Richmond citizens.

Girl Scouts In Plans For Saturday Hike

Plans for a hike to be held March 2 were arranged by the members of the Citizens' Girl Scout troop meeting last night in the Longfellow junior high school band house. The hike will be under the direction of Mrs. L. W. Wuesthoff, troop captain.

The group held a short business meeting last night. Games were played and camp songs were sung. Mrs. Wuesthoff presided.

Watomeo Group To Plant Flowers In Park Today

Members of Watomeo group Campfire Girls will go to Alvarado park this morning at 10 o'clock to plant flowers as their contribution to Planting Week being conducted by the Campfire Girls.

A. C. Faris, city clerk, has provided them with a quantity of larkspur seeds which they will plant beneath the large tree dedicated to the Campfire Girls. The name of the group will be outlined in rocks beneath the tree. The members will enjoy a Weiner roast at noon.

Campfire guardians met last night in the First Presbyterian church for a business session. Leather tooling of insignias provided the diversion for the evening.

Ignia group will meet tonight in the home of Anna Shaw in Mira Vista for a business meeting.

blocks from the girl's home and turned it over to detectives, who refused to give any information about it.

The author of the notes faces the grave accusation of misusing the United States mails even if he is not the abductor of baby Doris, police intimated in the announcement that the latest note would be turned over to federal postal authorities.

This move also indicated that Doris was captured by a degenerate.

Handwriting Different

Although a total of four pieces of paper bearing the initials K. K. have reached parents of the missing child, officers were prone to attribute the first one to a child and claimed the handwriting was different than in the others.
